

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method, data structure, and system provide the ability to display redline markups on a base document. A RedlineXML (extended markup language) document conforms to a RedlineXML schema. The RedlineXML schema identifies the structure of the RedlineXML document. The schema and document has a base document element that identifies a base document and an object element having one or more attributes for displaying a redline markup object on the base document. The redline markup object is then displayed on the base document in accordance with the objects element and the one or more attributes set forth in the RedlineXML document.
